
Catalog No. 4000	Region The Southern Levant
Name Narmer serekh from Tel Halif Terrace (Nahal Tillah)	Site Tel Halif Terrace (Nahal Tillah)
Date (Period) Dyn. 1	Locality Silo site IIb
Date (King) Narmer	Depository Unknown
Dated By Royal name	Registration No. IAA 64994
Type Vessel (wine jar)	Dimensions 5.4 cm H, 3.8 cm L (inscription); 9.0 cm H, 9.1 cm L (object)
Method of Inscription Incised	Signs
Material Pottery

References:

Levy et al., 1995, pp. 26-33, p. 31, left
Levy et al., 1997, pp. 9, 18-19, p. 10, fig. 6
van den Brink, 1998, pp. 215-21, p. 219, fig. 1a; p. 223, pl. 1a
Levy et al., 2001, pp. 413, 417, 430-433, 436-437, p.432, fig. 12.13.9; p. 435, fig. 12.14.10
van den Brink and Levy, 2002, pp. 25-27,
Courtesy of Thomas E. Levy, Levantine and Cyber-Archaeology Laboratory, UC San Diego,

Comments

Made of Egyptian clay (Levy et al. 1995: 32; Levy et al. 1997: 19; Levy et al. 2001: 417), which shows that the vessel was manufactured in Egypt rather than made locally.

Courtesy of Thomas E. Levy, Levantine and Cyber-Archaeology Laboratory, UC San Diego

Plate 1a. Incised serekh sign of Narmer (photograph by Z. Radovan).
Tel Halif Terrace, Silo Site IIb. (Courtesy and copyright T.E. Levy).

van den Brink, 1998

p. 219, fig. 1a; p. 223, pl. 1a